Where High School Boys Learn Metal Crafts

PROVIDES LOOK INTO INDUSTRY

High School Course Designed to Cover Wide Training Field

Progressive education is constantly offering new fields of training. Not at all behind the pace is Salem High school with its recently inaugurated course in metal industries, capably supervised by E. A. Englehart.

An outgrowth of a course in auto mechanics started 10 years ago, the study of metal industries is designed to give students a broad appreciation of industry, rather than specific training in any one particular field.

Covers Wide Scope

The scope of the new course is wide, covering metallurgy, oxygen acetylene welding, electric arc welding, pattern making, molding, forging, automotive, machine shop work and general bench work. Students are given the opportunity to study any unit of the course they desire, providing the particular field is not overcrowded.

Besides laboratory work, the course offers an especially designed study of drawing to familiarize students with blueprint reading and make it possible for them to express their ideas on paper so they can not be misunderstood.

The course is one of a few in the state offering to High school students a knowledge of carburization, a study particularly applicable to Salem because of the city's industrial set-up.

Started last fall, the course in metal industries replaced a course in general shop work, originally called auto mechanics. The auto mechanics course, founded in 1930, branched out over a period of years until it embraced many of the units

Outgrow Quarters

The automotive course was originally launched in one small room on the basement floor of the High school building, but its rise in popularity was so rapid that within a year's time it was necessary to find larger quarters.

The problem was solved in the fall of 1931 by moving an old one-room frame school building to the rear of the High school and turning it into a workshop.

Supreme Court Exemption Ruling Favors George H. Bowman

The Ohio supreme court exempted employers of salesmen on commission only from contributing to the unemployment compensation fund but Administrator H. C. Atkinson of the compensation bureau viewed the decision today as limited in application, according to word received by Atty. Ralph Atkinson.

The court ruled yesterday in a suit to prevent the state from requiring George H. Bowman of Salem to contribute to the unemployment fund for the unemployment of a salesman. Don C. Cochran, of Akron, hired on commission.

Administrator Atkinson said Bowman was ineligible for unemployment benefits under the decision but expressed belief that it would not apply to salesmen paid on commission but required to report regularly at offices or remain under control of employer through similar means.

Backing up its recent ruling that state provisional workers discharged by the Bricker administration were not entitled to reinstatement, the court yesterday also refused a rehearing for Thomas F. Lynch, dismissed liquor store clerk at New Lexington. The decision was based on failure of provisionals to take state civil service examinations.

The court also held that the Muskingum conservancy district had jurisdiction to enforce its orders and could not be required to do so by a higher court.

The decision, reversing an appellate court, was made in suits by the Akron Coal Co., and the Kimbrough Milling Co., to test the conservancy district's authority to condemn Chumsey county property. Appellate court dismissal of the suits was ordered.

Thirty-One Arrests Reported In March

Thirty-one arrests, nine more than the previous month's total, were made by police during March, the criminal docket showed today. Reckless driving, with nine violations, led the list, which also included: Driving while intoxicated, 4; intoxication, 6; selling liquor to a minor, 1; failure to register a motor vehicle, 3; petty larceny, 1; pointing firearms, 1; non-support, 1; driving with insufficient lights, 2; driving with improper plates, 1; driving with insufficient brakes, 1; no driver's license, 1.

GERMANS CLAIM TIGHTER GRIP

Berlin Defies Allies To Loosen Her Hold In Norway

BERLIN, April 11.—Nazi Germany is steadily tightening her fist of iron on Norway, authorized German spokesmen contended today, and defying the allies to loosen her hold.

"German positions throughout Norway are so thoroughly consolidated," these sources asserted, "that there is not the remotest possibility they could be dislodged by English and French forces."

They pictured a steady stream of German soldiers being transported to the northern kingdom to strengthen the forces landed Tuesday at strategic points.

Deny Sea Battle Reports

Authorized sources then made the most categorical denial of reports of an extensive sea battle. "In only two places did the German air force have encounters with the British fleet (yesterday)," they said, "but reports of a clash of major forces of the navy are wholly unfounded."

"Our transports continued crossing the Skagerrak unmolested until the Norwegian situation was completely in control."

Amid German celebration of "victory" over the British in protection of the Nazi foothold in Scandinavia there appeared today a hint that newly occupied bases might be used for bombing attacks on England.

The Berlin newspaper Lokai Anzeiger declared that Germany, after having "successfully repulsed" the British destroyer attack on the Norwegian ore port of Narvik, "will not permit herself to be attacked continuously in Denmark and Norway."

The newspaper added that all the possibilities which these areas offer will be employed "for the defense of northern Europe and for the protection of the two occupied countries."

Reports Continue

Meanwhile the accumulation of reports on Germany's farflung Scandinavian operations filled in a startling picture of the Nazi swoop to put Denmark and Norway in a sort of "protective custody" at least so long as the war is on. DNB, official news agency, reported confiscation of five British steamers loaded with cannon, machine guns and other war materials.

Liverpool Schools In Low Cost Group

The East Liverpool school district was fourth lowest among 107 city and village school districts in the state in the average education cost per pupil during the 1938-39 term, a state report disclosed.

The Liverpool cost per pupil was $64.17, according to the report. The Salem school district cost was $67.71; Wellsville, $69.64; Lisbon, $79.47; Columbiana, $75.84. The state average is $85.20.

According to the report, the current expense cost of Columbiana county schools, under the jurisdiction of the county board of education, amounted to $75.91 per student. The state average of county schools was $86.23.

U. S. TO REMOVE CITIZENS FROM NEW WAR ZONES

Selects Overland Route To Genoa, Italy, Embarkation Point

SCANDINAVIAN WEALTH FROZEN

Roosevelt Prohibits Removal of Assets From America

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, April 11.—The state department announced today it had authorized the removal from Norway, Sweden and Denmark of all Americans wishing to return to the United States.

The department decided to remove those wishing to go, on an overland route through Germany to Genoa, Italy, for embarkation there, on American ships.

American shipowners have assured cooperation, it was said. The department is communicating with the German government to obtain transit permission.

The state department listed 1,067 Americans in Norway, 1,752 in Sweden and 552 in Denmark—a total of 3,371—as of January 1.

"Freeze" Scandinavian Wealth The United States took unprecedented action today to assure Norway and Denmark on the safety of their several hundred million dollars in holdings in this country.

Foreclosing any possible German attempt to confiscate this rich store of foreign exchange for the Nazi war chest, President Roosevelt, by executive order, prohibited the removal from America of any Danish and Norwegian assets, monetary or otherwise.

He took this step late yesterday shortly after extending the combat zone of European waters from which American ships are banned. He added not only the whole Norwegian coast but also the Russian ports of Murmansk and Archangel, and the Finnish harbor of Petsamo, where the Soviets have special privileges under the recent peace treaty. Waters around the British isles, France, The Netherlands, Belgium and Germany previously were closed.

Three ships headed for Norway were called back from mid-ocean, and efforts were instituted to get three others out of perilous Scandinavian ports.

Important Decisions Held Up Two important government decisions were held in abeyance pending more complete information from the war zone. The first was the question whether Denmark and Norway should be formally designated belligerents under the neutrality act, and made subject to its cash-and-carry provisions. The second concerned the $20,000,000 in credits recently granted the two countries.

President Roosevelt's sweeping order protecting Danish-Norwegian investments here covered both the governments and citizens of the nations as of April 8, or before the Nazi invasion.

The treasury promptly instructed all holders of Danish or Norwegian wealth in this country to report it for an accounting. The exact value of the holdings involved was not known, but New York financial circles estimated that the Scandinavian countries, Sweden included, had several hundred million dollars to their credit in readily transferable assets.

In 1932 Dr. Fawcett was selected as one of 25 outstanding botanists and one of the 1,000 leading scientific men in the United States.

U.S. Releases Latest Types Of Warplanes

WASHINGTON, April 11.—As Europe's war blazed to its fiercest heights today, the Franco-British allies got the long sought "go ahead" signal for purchase of latest type American fighting planes.

Simultaneously the navy, with one eye on Europe, decided to expedite the construction of 10 new warships and refit three submarines. In congress, opposition appeared against proposed reductions in the fleet building program.

The war department cleared the Allied way yesterday by releasing for export three of the air corps newest pursuit ships, all credited with speed of 400 miles an hour or better. The planes are designed to prey on raiding bombers and to fight off any faster craft accompanying them.

The action promised an end to the Allied delay in placing an estimated $1,000,000,000 order for about 8,000 American military planes and 13,000 engines. The contracts had been held up because the Allies claimed that anything but the latest type planes would be outclassed by the enemy by the time mass deliveries began a year hence.

The planes released were: The Bell P-39, known as the Airacobra and said to be one of the world's fastest pursuit ships; the Lockheed P-38, a two-motored, heavily-armed interceptor craft, and an improved model of the Curtiss P-40, an advance type of the pursuit ship which already has been praised by the French for its performance against the Nazi Messerschmitt.

WOMAN SEVENTH TRAFFIC VICTIM

Mrs. Elizabeth M. Jones, 85, E. Liverpool, Killed by Truck

EAST LIVERPOOL, April 11.—An 85-year-old woman was listed today as Columbia county's seventh traffic victim of 1940.

The woman, Mrs. Elizabeth M. Jones, was fatally injured when she fell under the rear wheels of a city truck near her home on Lisbon st. at 11 a. m.

She died at 11:25 a. m. in East Liverpool City hospital of multiple injuries, head lacerations and shock. Clarence Hulke, an employee of the city incinerator department, told police that he was backing his truck to a lane when Mrs. Jones fell under the wheels. The truck driver said the aged woman was apparently attempting to step across a puddle of water when she fell.

Hulke informed police that while backing his truck he was looking out the left door. He said that Mrs. Jones was on the right side at the rear of the truck, that he saw her as she fell, but could not stop his machine in time to avoid hitting her.

Covered Arnold Devon and city police are continuing their investigation of the accident.

Mrs. Jones, who resided at the home of Charles Shaffer on Lisbon st., is survived by five sons. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Flashes From War Fronts

(By Associated Press) BERLIN, April 11.—Informed sources said today German troops who occupied Oslo found 50 new American Curtiss planes which had not been completely assembled.

They said they would be studied for any possible information or new construction details.

(Aviation experts said there were no secrets of design and that no military secrets could be involved because the airplanes could not have been sent to Norway had there been.)

NORWAY JOINS ALLIED DRIVE AGAINST NAZIS

Complete Co-operation Is Announced by President of Parliament

NORTHERN TROOPS ARE REORGANIZED

Commander Arrested For Co-operating With Germans

(By Associated Press) STOCKHOLM, April 11.—The president of the Norwegian parliament, Carl J. Hambro, announced today that Norway's northern forces now are co-operating fully with British forces against the German invasion.

Hambro, who is in Stockholm on an undisclosed mission, made the announcement after communicating with the Norwegian government, which has established headquarters at Elverum, 20 miles from the Swedish frontier.

A German advance eastward from Narvik, northern Norwegian port, already has been repulsed and Hammar, for a time seat of the government, recaptured, Hambro said.

Hambro informed Norwegian legations in Helsinki and Stockholm that offers of volunteers would be gratefully accepted and that instructions would be sent soon to speed their entry to help against the German invasion.

Norwegian Raid Labeled Nazis' Biggest Error

(By Associated Press.) STOCKHOLM, April 11.—Norwegian forces have recaptured the port of Bergen from the German invaders, the Norwegian commander at the city reported today by wireless, and are massing for an attempt to wrest Trondheim, further up the west coast, from the enemy.

German troops are being concentrated around Trondheim in the expectation that the Norwegian attack will come shortly, he reported.

Norwegian troops were said to be advancing from the north in the hope of cutting off German troops operating between Trondheim and the Swedish border.

LONDON, April 11.—Winston Churchill today told the house of commons "great losses have been suffered by the German navy" in a continuing air and naval battle launched by Germany's invasion of Norway.

"We have greatly gained by what has occurred in Scandinavia and northern waters in the strategic and military sense," he said.

"Hitler has made as great a strategic and political error as Napoleon when he invaded Spain."

(Premier Reynaud, speaking in Paris at the same time, declared that 18 German ships, including four cruisers, had been sunk in battles in Norwegian waters in which allied losses were only four ships.)

Of Britain's losses, Churchill told the house of the sinking of the destroyer Glowworm and Gurkha.

Britain Occupies Faroe Islands

Churchill said Britain was occupying Denmark's Faroe Islands, between the Shetland Islands and Iceland, but that they would be returned to Denmark when she "is liberated from the foul thralldom into which she has been plunged by German aggression."

The hard-biting Churchill proclaimed to the house that "all German ships in the Skagerrak and the Kattegat will be sunk."

He contended that by invading Norway "Hitler has doubled the efficiency of the Allied blockade."

"We have suffered from nothing in our blockade so much as from the accused (Norwegian) corridor now closed forever."

Keep Naval Activities Secret

"I have been asked in some quarters what is the (British) navy doing," the first lord of the admiralty said, "but the house will not expect me to lift the veil at this juncture."

"If the Norwegian government had not been so very strict and severe in enforcing their neutrality against us," he said, "it would have been very easy to give them more timely and more support than is now possible."

He charged that German invasion had been "long and elaborately prepared" against a number of small countries and it was only in the small hours of Monday that it was learned "that Norway and Denmark had drawn the unlucky numbers in this sinister lottery."

"It is not the slightest use blaming the Allies for not being able to give substantial protection to neutral countries when we are held at arm's length by those countries until they are actually attacked on a scientifically prepared plan by Germany."

He announced that the destroyer Glowworm apparently had been lost Monday morning off the Norwegian coast in a battle with German warships. Her normal complement was 145.

A very heavy bomb fell on the battle ship Rodney but her decks, the first lord said, "resisted it."

He said the cruiser Aurora was attacked unsuccessfully five times while "the destroyer Gurkha accompanying her was hard hit and sank after four and a half hours and the crew rescued."

"The destroyer Zulu sank a German U-boat off the Orkneys," the first lord disclosed.

"There is no reason," said Churchill, "why a large portion of the Glowworm should not have been saved if the ordinary humanity of fighting men had been practiced by the enemy."

THAT LIVING ROOM PROBLEM

Faced with the tremendous fact that Communazi influence has been spread entirely around the Baltic sea and that the dictatorial front stretches from the toe of the Italian boot to the crown of the Scandinavian hat, Americans can't be expected to muster much more than an awed "Gosh!"

They are more than ever impressed with the speed and precision of the military machine developed in Germany. While their confidence in its ultimate destruction is not as yet shaken seriously, they are ready to admit it gained the jump on the opposition with occupation of the Rhineland and has been in control of the situation ever since.

Nevertheless, at the moment of the latest Nazi coup, which has destroyed the independence of Denmark and apparently has put Norway in a dilemma from which it cannot escape, it is as true as it ever was that Germany is its own worst enemy. Its political and economic problems have increased with each new accession of territory.

It has accumulated, to use its own expression, "living room." In so doing it has accumulated millions of hostile subjects who will know no peace till they have crushed the master that enslaved them. It stands ready, moreover, to accumulate still more space and population, still using force, still carried away by the hope that a greater Germany can be carved out of Europe with a sword.

The Danes, the Norwegians, the Swedes, the Poles, the Czechoslovak groups and the Austrians are neither Germans nor Nazis. If the threat to make them all subject races is carried out—if the Allies cannot keep Germany out of Scandinavia—the reich will have gathered to itself the greatest minority problem in history. Ultimately, the problem would prove greater than Germany. It is difficult indeed to decide whether the swift blow in the north, which may make Scandinavia a battleground, is another triumph for Hitlerism or the beginning of its downfall.

MARTHA TAFT, PIONEER

The Roosevelt family eased Americans into the notion that a chief executive's wife, sons and daughters don't necessarily wither up and blow away in the glare of publicity. Mrs. Roosevelt, especially, has done some trail blazing, but she must divide honors from now on with the wife of Ohio's Sen. Robert A. Taft.

Mrs. Roosevelt emerged as a vital part of her husband's political organization after his election. It was several years, in fact, till voters realized they had elected a president and his wife, instead of just a president. First ladies always have been important, but Mrs. Roosevelt chose to be important in front of the scenery.

Now comes Mrs. Taft, with a new idea. When her husband ran successfully for the senate in 1938, she ran with him. She is running with him for president, making speeches in his—or perhaps it's "their"—behalf. Oratorically, it's as though the senator were two; while his wife is off on a tour drumming up votes he can be doing something else.

This two-for-one business may be the biggest thought in national politics since the high protective tariff; it has possibilities.

WEASANDS AND BUCKEYES

When British blockaders seized 27,000 weasands from Germany recently and put them up for sale, potential customers were mystified. The dictionary said weasands were windpipes, but whose?

Finally, a spokesman for the ministry of economic warfare explained that weasands were bullocks' windpipes, used for sausage casings. It suggested an idea for solving this department's own current word mystery.

The March issue of Printers Ink Monthly, in an article discussing development of quality advertising by low price suit manufacturers, says, "There is a distinct trend away from the buckeye." What does that mean?

Webster's New International dictionary says a buckeye is variously a kind of tree, an Ohioan, a type of boat, and a butterfly. It gives no hint that it also is a synonym for lack of quality, as suggested by Printers Ink.

While a reply from the magazine is awaited, does any Ohioan know why the symbol of his state came to mean anything but quality to an outsider?

INCIDENTAL WORRIES

There's scarcely a worry cell left idle in the average mind at the moment, but while furrowing a brow over the possibility of finding Adolf Hitler asleep on King George's throne some morning, how about the Byrd expedition?

Something has gone haywire. Part of the expedition is back, including some of the leaders, and the rest apparently is lingering in antarctica pending approval of an appropriation to bring it home too. Is someone taking care of this matter?

The way things are, it's not impossible the hardy explorers might get misled like the Pitcairn islanders. They will inform them, if a copy ever reaches antarctica, that they aren't being entirely forgotten.

WHY CALL IT OFF.

The Walker cup golf matches, announces the Royal and Ancient Golf club of St. Andrews, will be called off this year because of the "emergency." The British have more serious things to do than uphold their golfing skill.

Even a non-golfer might wonder about that. Cancellation of a traditional event merely deepens the impression of a world being turned upside down. In the World war, the United States continued to play baseball to avert that impression—and it worked.

The British, who have been known to knock off for a cup of tea in the middle of emergencies, certainly could have found time for a few rounds of golf between twigs on the lion's tail.

THE STARS SAY:

For Friday, April 12

PERHAPS mediocre progress may best interpret the effect of the planetary operations on this day's doings. There may be some rather surprising or entirely unlooked-for events, with travel, change, removal or new plans and procedures. These may be attended by petty annoyances, disappointments or impediments, begetting minor losses or financial worries but with sound acumen there may be fair success and pleasant contacts, especially with strangers. The private life is expansive, pleasurable, probably romantic and happy.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of minor change, with removal, travel, new surroundings, interests and associates. Such reorganization is likely to encounter some small worries, delays and frustrations, with slight loss, either of money or some other substance. Strangers and new places benefit. In the personal life there may be great pleasure, probably sudden romance.

A child born on this day may have much originality, skill and inventive genius, expressed in art, culture or science. It should enjoy much prestige and popularity, with warm friendships among the mighty, who confer dignities and esteem.

Europe is where they make an Ersatz wool of milk because the sheep are killed to make a substitute for bacon.

Records Passage Period
Of Swallowed Articles

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

LAST SUMMER I wrote an article about a common summer accident, that of a child swallowing a pebble at the seashore or lakeshore, and I stated that in my experience a smooth pebble always passes out of the digestive canal in about four days.

I have just been reading the report of two Boston doctors, who have had a long and remarkable experience with patients who have

Objects Swallowed	No. of Cases	Average Age of Patient	Average Time Required to Pass

(N. B. Presidential Year) Miscellaneous objects were shoe buckles, toy whistles, keys, picture hangers, jackstones, etc.

Danger of Perforation. If a foreign object is not passed in seven days, it is time to begin to worry. Of course, there is danger of a sharp object, such as a pin, open safety pin, a needle or a phonograph needle perforating the esophagus, the stomach or any part of the bowel. This, however, occurs with remarkable infrequency. In 800

Dr. Clendingning will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

cases reported, perforation followed in about one per cent of cases.

Large objects may become impacted and cause intestinal obstruction.

Treatment is largely by expectation. Mushy foods and soft vegetable roughage in the form of green vegetables may be given but cathartics should never be used. They are liable to cause intestinal movements which result in perforation.

swallowed foreign bodies. They kept very careful records, and they confirm my statement, that the average period for a smooth object to pass out of the intestine is four days. Their experience covers such an astonishing series of cases that it is worth quoting.

I give below a partial list of the objects which were swallowed, the age of the patients, and the time required for the foreign bodies to pass out of the digestive tract:

Objects Swallowed	No. of Cases	Average Age of Patient	Average Time Required to Pass
Straight pin	15	14	3 1/2 days
Open safety pin	11	4 1/2	4 1/2 "

Closed safety pin	6	4	5 "

We like him for many reasons. He never makes a promise he can't keep. He never tries to over-stock us. He adjusts our complaints promptly. He never misleads us on quality. And, he puts his name and trade mark on everything he ships us.

He is known to you and us as a maker of nationally advertised products. Lots of good merchandise is not advertised nationally, but you can put this down as gospel truth. Nationally advertised products are more uniformly good, more reasonable in price (when service, wear and intrinsic value are considered) than products whose parentage is doubtful.

This store features nationally known products for just one simple reason—they win and hold friends for us year in and year out.

this over to the exclusive use of the auto mechanics classes.

But, as the study of automotive broadened into a still more popular course in general shop work, even the special building became too small to handle all the equipment used in class work.

School authorities were aware of this difficulty when plans for a new wing on the High school building were drawn up and approved by the voters. As a result, plans were made to house the general shop work classes in new and larger quarters in the new wing.

Today the general shop course, now known as metal industries since metallurgy and several other fields have been added to the curriculum, occupies two rooms on the basement floor of the new wing.

The larger of the two rooms, containing shop equipment used by students in gaining practical experience in the course, is called the metal industries laboratory. It is here that most of the class work is done.

Adjoining the laboratory is a planning room equipped with 10 portable drawing tables, reference library and the instructor's desk.

Equipment used in the various units of the course has either been purchased by the school or constructed by the students, who are assigned a definite project once they have selected the field in which they desire to study.

Since the inception of the course last fall, students of metallurgy have constructed heat treating and melting furnaces, are now building a forge furnace.

Safety methods in the work done by students in the course are displayed in a glass-front wall case outside the laboratory.

Safety methods in class room work are continually being stressed. Special instruction in first aid is given during the first week of the course, while safety methods are impressed upon students throughout the year.

The present enrollment, limited to Juniors and Seniors, is about 55 boys, divided into two classes. Students may take the course two years, studying advanced work and becoming shop foremen in their second year.

Marriage Licenses

Marriage licenses have been granted at Lisbon to: Arthur Knight, miner, of East Palestine and Mary J. Rodgers of R. P. D. Alliance.

Key man in the metal industries set-up is E. A. Englehart, a Salem High school teacher for 14 years who, when not occupied with school work, takes a keen interest in outdoor sports, numbering hunting and fishing among his favorite pastimes. Englehart has enthusiastically entered into metal industries work, devoting much of his spare time to development of the course and improving his knowledge of the subjects he teaches by visiting local industrial plants and discussing problems with experts in the various fields.

Englehart came to Salem in 1926 as instructor in mechanical drawing and woodworking. He still teaches mechanical drawing along with metal industries, but was relieved of the woodworking assignment in 1931 when his auto mechanics course began to branch out.

Englehart was named instructor in auto mechanics when the course was founded in 1930, has been an important factor in broadening the scope of the course to its present status. He credits much of the development of the course to cooperation and assistance received from E. S. Kerr, superintendent of Salem schools, and the board of education.

Over-Loaded Truck Brings Fine of $25

Mayor Norman Phillips issued an order to police yesterday to watch for overloaded trucks which are reported to be damaging the city streets.

Jesse Meure of New Waterford was arrested by police Wednesday afternoon on a charge of driving an overloaded coal truck and, when brought before the mayor, was fined $25 and costs.

The mayor warned that a second offense would bring a heavier fine.

Mayor Phillips said that the damage caused by the heavy trucks was done principally to downtown E. State st., and that the police are going to "war on those drivers who load their vehicles above the limit set by law."

HELP KIDNEYS PASS 3 PINTS A DAY

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. Kidneys remove excess acids and poisons waste from your blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisons matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

ferred from Elverum to Nybergund, about 15 miles from the Swedish border.

(This information, however, said King Haakon was staying at Elverum, southwest of Nybergund.)

British sea forces, attempting to keep the Germans from landing supplies or reinforcements in Norway, were said to have intercepted 10 large troopships, sinking at least five, setting one afire, damaging at least one other and driving one into haven in Sweden.

The newspaper Svenska Dagbladet reported Narvik, Norwegian ore-shipping port, retaken by the British and the German garrison there dispersed after a futile attempt to flee into Sweden. (The German high command called this a "false English report.")

Will Not Submit

At Elverum, meanwhile, Premier Johan Nygaardsvold issued a proclamation declaring that Norway could not submit to German demands that she become a protectorate and King Haakon, declaring his faith in his people's will to fight, concurred.

Norwegian Foreign Minister Halvdan Koht asked how his government considered Britain's declaration that Norway was now her ally.

"We are at war with Germany, thereby in alliance with others at war with Germany. Besides that, we have concrete offers of assistance from England and France," Koht declared Norway was determined to do everything to stay free of German rule.

GERMANS CLAIM TIGHTER GRIP

The high command announced that German troops had occupied the Danish Baltic island of Bornholm without difficulty. The island is about 25 miles from Sweden's southern tip.

It also was reported that certain Norwegian coastal batteries had been taken over for defense and that Norwegian defense forces "readily agreed" to participate in air protection against the Allies. Evidence from quasi-official and authoritative sources indicates that the German movement on Norway and Denmark was not so much a suddenly conceived blow as a plan designed over several days to circumvent what was officially interpreted as a British intention to use the northland as a base for attack against the reich.

Leads Police Merry Chase for Awhile; Draws Fine of $100

Edward O. Henderson, 30, of Chester, W. Va., was jailed on a charge of driving while intoxicated, at 1 a. m. today, following a police chase down side streets, through alleys and eventually outside the city on Route 14.

The chase lasted a half-hour. Patrolmen Paul Ormsby and Clifford Todd said they finally caught up with the motorist at the Pascola coal mine, east of the city, after they had turned the lights out on the cruiser and Henderson, apparently, thought he had eluded his pursuers.

Brought before Mayor Norman Phillips this morning, the Chester motorist pleaded guilty to the charge and was fined $100 and costs.

CANTON, April 11 — Mrs. Sadie Orr Dunbar of Washington, D. C., president of the National Federation of Women's Clubs, is scheduled to address the 450 convention delegates of the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs here tonight.

CHAPTER XXXIII
Lawrie got out his pipe, and fished in both pockets for tobacco. "The next time I do it," he said, puffing as Linda held the match for him, "I'm going to have all new rubber. How many times did I change tires, Del?"

"About fifteen times."
"Fifteen? Jeeze, I changed five times on that day," we struck the cloudburst in—was that South Dakota, Del?"

"No, North Dakota. Oh, I don't know."
"Five times on that one stretch, and I give you my word, not one day but what one tire went, and it was hardly a day we done two hundred miles I didn't have two, any-how. I tell you, to come that far with no rubber is—"

Della was coming in with the sleepy child in her arms. He had red curls like hers, and he hid his face on her shoulder.
"Look up at your Aunt Linda! Come to your dad, feller!" Lawrie cried.

"No, he wants to stay with his mom," Della said.

Linda pulled her hat off of her head. She managed a smile. "Oh, he's too tired now. Put him back on the bed, Della, dear. And now tell me everything. Where are you bound for, and what are your plans, and how's everybody—and EVERYTHING?"

Della said: "Lawrie thought—he thought—"

Lawrie cut in. He said, "Sure I thought. Linda's doing good—look at the place she's got! I thought she could get me a job here. Why not?"

"Of course," Linda said, "a job. Naturally you want a job." She knew she was talking nonsense, but she couldn't help it. For the first time in her life she thought she was going to faint.

"I could sure use one," Lawrie said, "and I've come a darn long way to see about one. Things are sure bad out our way. The flood wiped out the fellow I worked with last year, and when Della said why didn't we come out here, I thought that was a pretty good idea. You're the only one who has made much, Linda. I don't see yet how you do it. I don't know any steghs out our way getting all the dough you do."

"No? Perhaps you don't know any that work as hard as I do," Linda said. A thin icy shell was closing over her heart that a moment ago had ached with sympathy for this unsmooth, shabby stranger who had once been the brother she loved.

"Maybe that's right," he said, and the look he gave her was sly and questioning.

"Would you like a drink? I think there's some Scotch in the buffet, and ice in the icebox—"

"Thanks. I don't drink. I didn't know you did."

"I don't very often. However, I eat quite regularly. Are you hungry? We'll see what we can find. I'm sorry it's the maid's day off—"

She could have bitten her tongue. She'd never mentioned the maid in her letters home. They wouldn't understand.

"Oh, there's a maid," Lawrie said. "Well, you ARE pretty swell!"

Della, still standing, holding the heavy, sleeping child, almost dropped him. "I should say so!"

"Everyone here has. Part time ones. I mean, my hours are too long to do anything at home myself. I frequently work nights. But I think I can whip up an omelet or something. What do you want for Sonny, Della?"

"Oh, he eats just like us. That is, anything but beans. Beans don't seem to agree with him, somehow."

She laid him on the bed and followed Linda into the kitchen. "Don't let Lawrie get your goat," she whispered, "he's mean that way when he's tired. He drove all the way. He won't let me drive, and we did 500 miles since yesterday morning. He's had it awful hard, Linda. He thinks he has a right to have something better, and I think so, too. Don't you?"

"Yes," Linda said. "Yes—I do." Mechanically she got out the eggs, showed Della where the silver was kept. "I'll be fixing the things for dinner while you set the table. Do you suppose that canned soup and broiled ham and an asparagus omelet would be enough for Lawrie? It's too late to get meat anywhere, but we could go to a restaurant—"

"Sure, that's be swell," Della said. The telephone rang.

Linda answered. "Oh, of course. I'm all right. . . . Why, does my voice sound funny? I'm a little hoarse. . . . No, I haven't a cold. No, I HAVEN'T a cold. . . . I was just going to call you and say that I can't. I got home rather late and found some friends waiting—"

"FRIENDS!" Lawrie murmured. "That's a good one. Friends!"

"So were just having dinner and—oh, that's all right. Yes, I'll call you later—or, anyhow, tomorrow. No, don't wait for me—I'm afraid I won't have a minute. Yes, tomorrow. Yes—goodbye!"

Della said: "You didn't have to cut him off that way. I was taking care of everything on the stove, Linda."

"Oh, I was going to stay home, anyway," Linda said. "People always call the 'wrong time—oh, BLAZES!" She'd dropped a knife, and, as she stooped to pick it up, the milk bottle upset.

Della wiped up the milk. "What makes you so nervous?" Lawrie asked. "Afraid some of your fine friends will see us? Ashamed of your family?"

"Oh, don't be silly!" Linda cried angrily. "Silly? What do you think I am, dumb?"

"I think you're damned unpleasant! Oh—don't answer me. Let's not fight! We're all tired—and I know you're hungry. Let's eat first, and fight afterwards—"

Della giggled. "Atta girl—that's the way to handle him!"

"Handle yourself! Get the kid up!"

"I was just going to. Honestly, Linda, when that man's hungry—"

"You don't have to show off! Get the kid, I say!"

"Well, I was—"

"Well, then why are you standing there shooting off your mouth?"

Linda went into the kitchen and began to serve the soup. Was Lawrie always like that? If he was, why didn't Della kill him long ago? Or did she make him that way?

Wails from the sleepy child. Words from Della. More words from Lawrie.

"Everything's on the table!" They put the little boy in a chair, built up with pillows. He smiled shyly, put out a thin little hand and touched the bright tablecloth. "Pretty!"

"This is something like it," Lawrie said. He straightened his necktie.

Linda said: "Tomorrow I'll have a REAL meal for you!"

For a moment he looked almost like the old Lawrie, as he said, "Aw, we don't want to sponge on you, kid! Sure we aren't crowding you too much?"

Ned was shocked when he met Linda at noon the next day. "You look TERRIBLE!"

"Flatterer!"

"Oh, but Lynn—you're ill. You look TERRIBLE!"

Takes Horner's Job

John B. Stelle, top; Horner, below

Shortly before voters of the state were to go to the polls in a hotly contested primary, Lieut. Gov. John B. Stelle of Illinois, above, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, announced he was assuming the post of governor of the state. He based his assumption on the claim that Gov. Henry Horner is too ill to continue his executive duties.

was over, she was very much in the position of one who harbors fugitives. Not that Della and Lawrie were anxious to be hidden. Far from it. But her anxiety to hide them was overwhelming.

They were making themselves very much at home now. Della was singing as she prepared dinner in the kitchen. Lawrie had made himself comfortable on the sofa. The child played quietly with a shabby cotton dog, and some old magazines. The bathroom was hung with drying clothes.

"Have a good day?" Linda said. "Feel rested now?"

"Rarin' to go," Lawrie said, but he didn't lift his head from her best silk cushion.

"That's fine," she said. "You both look better, too."

EAST COPS FOUR NATIONAL AAU RING TITLES

MAXIN WINNER OF 160-POUND BOXING TITLE

Three Ohioans Beaten In Semi-Finals of AAU Tourney

BOSTON, April 11.—The balance of amateur boxing power swung back to the east today, four of its representatives wearing half of the national A. A. U.'s 1940 championship crowns.

The east was paced by a trio of its hard-punching Negro fighters, Featherweight Frankie Robinson of Oil City, Pa., Welterweight Henry Brimm of Buffalo, N. Y., and Heavyweight Wallace Cross of East Orange, N. J.

Robinson, who won the 1939 national junior 126-pound title, was the only one of the eight new champions to win by a knockout. He stopped Yasuki Yasutake of Honolulu, in 70 seconds flat, in the final.

Two Hawaiians in three other Hawaiians survived the semi-finals and two won titles. Johnny Manalo defeated Dado Marino, also of Honolulu, for the 112-pound championship. Paul Matsumoto of Hawaii gained a split decision over Tommy Moyer of Portland, Ore., in the 135-pound final.

Joe Maxim of Cleveland defeated Louis Angelucci of Chicago for the 160-pound crown; Victor Hutton of Farmersburg, Ind., won in the light heavyweight class, and Angelo Ambrosano of Philadelphia took the bantamweight windup.

Three Ohioans were beaten in the semi-finals.

Tommy Moyer of Portland, Ore., outpointed Beauford Glover of Mansfield in the 135-pound class. In the welterweight division, Brimm decided John Lawler of Cleveland, Cross scored a technical knockout over James Strayhorn of Wilberforce in the second round.

Breezy Briefs Of Sport From Brietz To You

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, April 11.—The freshman baseball coach at Michigan State is sitting up nights trying to pare a squad of 200 hopefuls to 25.

Old Zeke Bonura was so keen to hook up with Washington he offered to pay $1,000 of the purchase price. . . . When and if Johnny Paycheck regains consciousness he'll be offered a May 10 set with Gunnar Barlund in Chicago.

Nixon Denton, Cincinnati Times-Star: "By not identifying the gentleman we'll provide every news commentator in Cincinnati, but one of the boys, discussing the Grand National at Aintree last week, called it the '102nd running of the steeple chase.'"

That crop of berls has made Billy Conn a bit grumpy. He yells: "I wouldn't fight him for a million bucks." Haw! We always thought that was when guys liked to fight.

Eddie Shore (Mr. Hockey to you) has voted to play one more season and quit. . . . Bill Terry is singing a mean baritone in the barber shop quartet on the Giants' Indians special these early mornings.

Fighter Davey Day's wife, suing for divorce, says Davey used her as a sparring partner.

Here's something new in auto-graphing: When the Reds and Red Sox blew into Roanoke, Va., school kids swarmed into the hotel and had the big shots sign their clothing from the collar down. During the jam, Bill McKeechell fell down and went boom, skinning his leg to boot.

BOWLING RESULTS

The Columbiana Firestones last night jumped their lead in the Pastime league from seven to nine games at the Grate Recreation alleys, winning two of three games from Loudon V-8's while the second-place Tyson Service team forfeited three games to Eaton's Shell Service.

With only 12 games remaining before the close of the season, the Firestones appear practically certain to capture the league championship for the second straight year.

Other Pastime league matches last night saw the Columbiana Barons win three games from Bossert's and the Sohioans gain three wins on a forfeit by Junior C. of C. No. 1. Two matches were postponed.

Two Columbiana bowlers, Collier and Shontz, turned in the best series of the night, Collier hitting 628 and Shontz 613.

The S. S. Kresge ladies remained safely out in front in the Masonic women's league, gaining two wins in three games with Wark's Cleaners & Dyers.

The second-place Ohio Edison posted three wins over the Bankerettes, while in other matches Mullins won two games from the Elks and the Salem News gained three wins on a forfeit by the Electric Furnace.

Mrs. Gertrude Vannie of The News led the individual firing, combining games of 166, 207 and 142 for a 515 series.

DEAN BALKS AT OBEYING ORDER OF CUBS' BOSS

Remains In Kansas City Despite Command To Go to Chicago

KANSAS CITY, April 11.—Dizzy Dean, who changes his mind faster than he ever changed his pitching pace, cancelled a midnight train reservation and guessed he'd stay over today to watch his Chicago Cubs play an exhibition game against the St. Louis Browns.

"I'm going to sit in the stands, eat peanuts and enjoy myself just like any other fan,"

Ol' Diz beamed. He was feeling good after a chicken dinner, topped off by a beer or two. He apparently forgot that he was fined $100 and ordered by Manager Charles Hartnett to go to Chicago.

Hartnett liked Dean, apparently, poked more by the telephone calls Dean's latest screwball antics caused him than by the pitcher's actual offense. Suddenly was neither jovial nor glib.

The trouble all started in Wichita. No one knows when it will end, or how.

"Who cares?" snapped Hartnett. Dizzy told interviewers at Topeka he spent Tuesday night visiting an uncle, Rev. Bland Dean, who lives 14 miles from Wichita.

"I knew I was going to be a little late (to catch the Cubs' special) so I tried to telephone Hartnett. I couldn't get him."

He caught a later train and arrived 30 minutes behind the Cubs.

His uncle said "I didn't see Dizzy. He didn't show up."

Dean slipped in his fast one; "Aw I didn't say my uncle, I said my nephew. Any of the boys'll tell you I was with him."

Said Hartnett: "I'm fine and home to Chicago."

Makes Reservation

Dean made a train reservation for St. Louis to see his wife—his moral and spiritual adviser in times of stress. Then Dean and most of the Cubs went out to Joe Gleason's Golden Arrow tavern. Manager Hartnett was conspicuous by his absence.

There Ol' Diz wavered between submission to Hartnett's orders and rebellion.

"I'm going to do anything Gaby wants me to."

A few bites later:

"If they make that phony fine stick I'm going on an exhibition tour. Hell, I can make more than the $10,000 they're paying me in three weeks barnstorming."

Training Camp Briefs

DANVILLE, Va., April 11.—The Cleveland Indians' anxiety over Hal Trosky's injured hand was lightened today after an X-ray examination showed no broken bones. The big first baseman expects to return to the lineup possibly Saturday or Sunday when the club completes its exhibition series with the New York Giants in Cleveland.

Grove Substitutes

BALTIMORE, Md.—A hint as to the pitching choices Manager Joe Cronin may have in mind for the Boston Red Sox when he isn't using old Moss Grove may be the successful combination he sent against the Cincinnati Reds Tuesday—Dennis Galehouse, Emerson Dickman and Jim Bagby.

Frisch Checks Throat

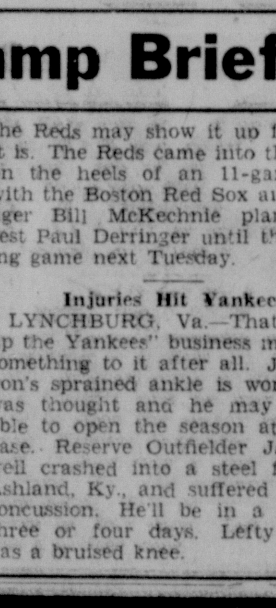

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—Manager Frankie Frisch sent the Pittsburgh Pirates here in charge of Coach Mike Kelly and went to St. Louis for a further check on the throat ailment that kept him in bed last week. Today's game was the last between the Pirates and White Sox.

Pitching In Doubt

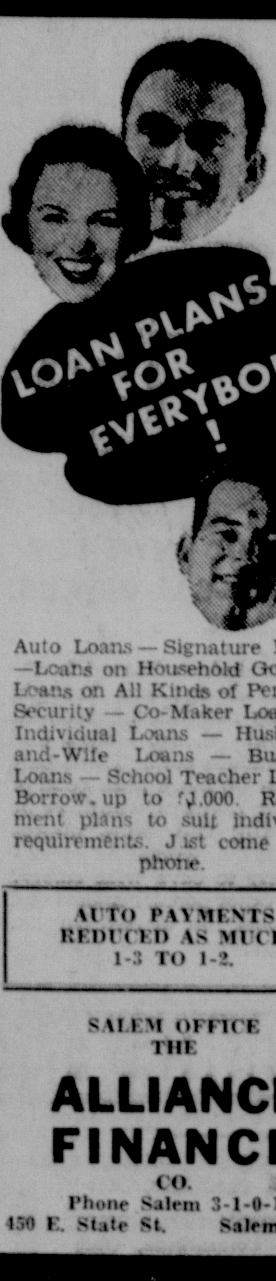

PORTSMOUTH — Opening their four-game skirmish with the Cincinnati Reds, the Detroit Tigers were ready today to face hard facts regarding their pitching. It's none too promising and the series with the Reds may show it up for what it is. The Reds came into the series on the heels of an 11-game duel with the Boston Red Sox and Manager Bill McKechnie planned to rest Paul Derringer until the opening game next Tuesday.

Injuries Hit Yankees

LYNCHBURG, Va.—That "break up the Yankees" business may have something to it after all. Joe Gordon's sprained ankle is worse than was thought and he may not be able to open the season at second base. Reserve Outfielder Jake Powell crashed into a steel fence at Ashland, Ky., and suffered a brain concussion. He'll be in a hospital three or four days. Lefty Gomez has a bruised knee.

NEWS' KEGLERS NOT IN MONEY

Trail Far Behind Leaders In ABC Events At Detroit

Bowlers representing The Salem News in the 40th annual American Bowling Congress tournament at Detroit failed to break into the money while competing in ABC events Tuesday and Wednesday.

The News' keglers fired a 2,513 score in the five-man event with Merle Caldwell leading the team with a 538 series.

The 2,513 count is better than scores registered by four other Salem teams which competed in the ABC last month, but still far below the leaders in the five-man event.

Glyde Miller and Jim Primin turned in the best score among The News' keglers in the doubles, combining series of 552 and 503 for a 1,055 total. Ralph Hawley and Jim Jackson were close behind with 1,049, while Earl Grate and Caldwell totaled 1,028.

Grate was high for the Salem delegation in the singles, hitting 576 on games of 191, 183 and 202.

TRIBE TO PLAY FOR CLEVELAND FANS SATURDAY

Indians Scheduled For Preview Showing At League Park

CLEVELAND, April 11.—Cleveland's preview of the 1940 Indians is scheduled for League park Saturday afternoon.

The game will be the semi-final of the spring series with the New York Giants, the teams clashing here again Sunday in the closing exhibition tussle.

The Indians open the season Tuesday in Chicago, returning the following Friday for the home inaugural against Detroit.

The Giants held a six to five edge in the series as the teams squared off at Danville, Va., today. Tomorrow's tussle is scheduled for Bluefield, W. Va.

Probable Lineup

Manager Oscar Vitt probably will use the lineup he has named for the Chicago opener in the week-end contests. Two possible exceptions are at first base and in center field.

Vitt selected an infield of Hal Grosky, Ray Mack, Lou Boudreau and Ken Keltner and an outer defense of Jeff Heath, Roy Weatherly and Ben Chapman. Rollie Hemsel will catch.

If Trosky's injured hand is not in shape for the exhibitions, Oscar Grimes will play first and if a left-handed pitcher for the Giants Beau Bell may replace Weatherly. In the event of such an outfield shift, Bell would play right and Chapman move to center.

Rifle Queen Shudders At Thought Of Killing Birds

PITTSBURGH, April 11.—Attractive Rosemary Novak is the gentlest rifle queen ever to shoot the heart out of an intercollegiate championship target.

The 21-year old Carnegie Tech student is so non-militant that she never owned a rifle and shudders at the idea of using her skill to kill even birds.

But in the target range she's the greatest woman rifle shot on intercollegiate records, recently bagging the crown with 70 consecutive 10's when no previous champion had done better than 50.

When Rosemary entered Carnegie Tech's school of architecture five years ago, she'd never seen a rifle.

While a freshman the tall blonde Pittsburgh girl saw that co-eds wanting to learn use of rifles should report to Coach Ray C. Sommers. Rosemary liked tennis and archery but decided to try the new sport "because it sounded as though it would be fun and wouldn't take much time."

The time element was important because she was determined to do well in her studies and become a good architect. But the very first time Rosemary held a rifle she liked it.

Yes, she hopes to keep up rifle record-breaking as a hobby.

House Cleaning?
Drink Nitrates, Is Chemists' Advice

CINCINNATI, April 11—Get the wife to drink nitrates if she wants more strength to do the housework. She may even do without the maid if she reacts to this drink like one young woman described to the American Chemical society today, whose ability to do physical work rose 68 per cent in a week's trial of nitrates.

The experiments were reported by John A. Killian and Charles Oclason of New York City. The drinks were small amounts, seven times a day, of either sodium nitrate or of citrate with sodium bicarbonate. These are alkaline drinks. To them was added a little aspirin when it was discovered that the latter reduced muscular pain. The experiments covered five months.

The "guinea pigs" were six men and two women. They pedaled bicycles in a laboratory, until exhausted. Those with athletic training were less benefited than the non-athletes. But the most athletic, a man, did 24 per cent more work after citrate drinking. The average rise for all was 34 per cent.

The woman who went up 68 per cent had been accustomed to complete leisure from physical work.
